Studio Potter Jennifer Childers

Jennifer Dellinger Childers has been a studio potter at Rising Sun Pottery since 1998. Her life long interest in pottery started with her father who was a collector of Catawba Valley Pottery.

As an art major at Appalachian State in 1978, Jennifer took her first ceramics class and was hooked! She then enrolled in every clay class available at Appalachian State and graduated in 1982 with a Bachelor of Science in Art Marketing and Production with a concentration in clay.

Jennifer continued to make pottery as a hobby while working, raising a family and taking Art Education classes at UNC-Charlotte.

A Lincolnton, NC resident, Jennifer has been an elementary art teacher with Lincoln County Schools since 2001 receiving her National Board Certification in Elementary Art in 2007. Jennifer is a member of the North Carolina Art Educators Association, attends annual regional workshops as well as the Association's annual conference.

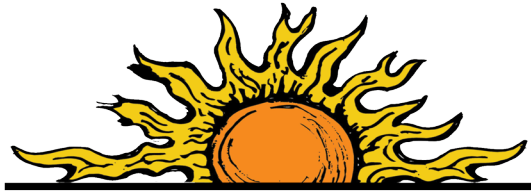

Jennifer creates a variety of decorative and functional stoneware, most of which is on display in the Gallery at Rising Sun Pottery. As with most potters, Jennifer likes to know her pottery has found a good home and is being used and appreciated.

She enjoys attending pottery workshops and classes whenever possible in order to continue her pottery education. She has attended classes with Cynthia Bringle, Charles (Terry) Zug, Bill Van Gilder and others.
